He stressed that departments that agree to supervise a student should have a research project available that will give them an overview of research from beginning to end. They are expected to prepare a product such as a poster presentation at the end of their term.

4. PROJECTS REPORT

- Richard passed out a report that summarized active studies and a summary of the partnership survey (both attached). Most of the discussion about the partnership survey centered on 7 items where lower SES parents did not see the items as important to partnership (i.e., had low propensity scores), while higher SES parents and physicians saw the items as more important to partnership (i.e., high propensity scores). There were different views on whether the items should be retained in the final item list for the partnership survey. A decision was made to retain the items in the survey.
